Zagrebački, odnosno banski denari u izvorima 13. i 14. st.

U članku se analiziraju izvori u kojima se tijekom 13. i 14. st. spominju zagrebački, odnosno banski denari.

Ključne riječi: pisana vrela, numizmatika, ekonomska povijest, zagrebački denari, banski denari.

Zagreb and banal denars in sources from the 13th and 14th centuries

The paper analyses the sources mentioning the Zagreb and banal denars in the 13th and 14th centuries.

Keywords: written sources, numismatics, economic history, Zagreb denars, banal denars.

Ovaj rad posvećujem našem kolegi Mati Zekanu, uvijek spremnom na stručnu pomoć i kakvu vedru šalu – koliko su nam već rijetke mogućnosti susreta tijekom brojnih desetljeća to dopuštale. Upoznali smo se kao studenti u listopadu 1968. godine, prigodom znanstvenog skupa Hrvatskog arheološkog društva pod naslovom “Prehistorija istočne Jadranske obale i grčka kolonizacija Jadrana”, održanog u Starom Gradu, Hvaru i Visu. Od ostalih studenata – koji su s velikim strahopoštovanjem i divljenjem slušali i gledali brojne skupljene akademike i profesore, kako domaće, tako i one iz inozemstva, sve velikih i poznatih imena – bili su tu npr. Ivančica Dvoržak (Schrunk), Vladimir Kovačić, Miroslav Mišković, Želimir Škoberne, Mate Zekan i drugi.

Prešavši iz Republičkog zavoda za zaštitu spomenika kulture u Ilici 44 u Zagrebu, gdje sam tri godine radio kao arheolog-konzervator, u Arheološki muzej u Zagrebu, na mjesto kustosa Odjela za numizmatiku, dana 1. travnja 1973. godine, dočekan sam ondje vrlo ljubazno od starijih kolega. Među njima posebno se isticala Ivica Degmedžić,

I dedicate this paper to our colleague Mate Zekan, always ready to offer professional help and a cheerful joke for many a decade, whenever the limited opportunities allowed our encounters. We met as students in October 1968 at the scientific conference organised by the Croatian Archaeological Association entitled “Prehistory of the Eastern Adriatic Coast and the Greek colonisation of the Adriatic”, held in Stari Grad, Hvar and Vis. Among the present students – who listened in great awe and admiration to many academicians and professors, both domestic and foreign, all great and famous names – there were, for example, Ivančica Dvoržak (Schrunk), Vladimir Kovačić, Miroslav Mišković, Želimir Škoberne, Mate Zekan and others.

When I moved from the Republic Institute for Protection of Cultural Monuments at Ilica 44 in Zagreb, where I had worked as an archaeologist-conservator for three years, to the position of curator at the Department of Numismatics in the Archaeological Museum in Zagreb, on 1 April 1973, I was greeted very kindly by the senior colleagues. Among them, Ivica Degmedžić (*Strizivojna, 6 March 1910 – Zagreb, 7 December 1988) stood out as a witty interlocutor, a great classical philologist, and an excellent teacher willing to share her knowledge, not to mention that she was a kind and warm, open person. Just as she had been helping her colleague Zdenka Dukat in the field of ancient numismatics since 1966, she started collecting data on mediaeval and modern numismatics for me from every nook and cranny. Over time, a rather large card index with thin sheets was created, written in her easily recognizable smart and legible handwriting, since she used to transcribe every mention of any coins she would come across while studying scientific literature and diplomatic corpora. Her notes covered the whole Triune Kingdom of Croatia, Slavonia and Dalmatia.

Later on, I also started the same systematic job, and the card index continued to grow. Some of the notes from sources found their place in my doctoral thesis and several published articles. Today, the card index is divided into two parts: one regards the coastal Croatia, viz. Dalmatia, and the other Croatia and Slavonia. Today, there are six such index cards covering the Kingdom of Slavonia and Croatia in the 12th century, 289 for the 13th century, 378 for the 14th century, 88 for the 15th century and 22 for the 16th century. Eventually, I transferred almost all the notes from sources into digital format.

kao duhovita sugovornica, sjajna klasična filologinja, odlična pedagoginja koja nije škrtarila svojim znanjem te dobra i topla, otvorena osoba. Kao što je to već od 1966. godine činila za kolegicu Zdenku Dukat u pogledu antičke numizmatike, tako je i za mene sa svih strana počela skupljati podatke o srednjovjekovnoj i novijoj numizmatiki. S vremenom je nastala prilično velika kartoteka tankih listića ispisanih njezinim lako prepoznatljivim simpatičnim čitkim rukopisom, kojim je prepisivala svaki spomen ikakvog novca na koji bi naletjela proučavajući stručnu literaturu, odnosno diplomatske korpusse. Ti citati pokrivali su cijelu Trojednu Kraljevinu Hrvatsku, Slavoniju i Dalmaciju.

Poslije sam se i ja dao sustavno na isti posao, pa je kartoteka i dalje rasla. Neki od citata iz izvora našli su svoje mjesto u mojoj doktorskoj disertaciji i nekim od objelodanjenih članaka. Kartoteka je danas podijeljena na dva dijela: jedan se odnosi na priobalnu Hrvatsku, odnosno Dalmaciju, a drugi na Hrvatsku i Slavoniju. Danas tih skeda koje pokrivaju Kraljevinu Slavoniju i Hrvatsku ima 6 za 12. stoljeće, 289 za 13. stoljeće, 378 za 14. stoljeće, 88 za 15. stoljeće te 22 za 16. stoljeće. Gotovo sve te citate iz izvora prepisao sam poslije i u računalu.

Kolegi Mati Zekanu iz tog bih bogatog materijala odabrao i posvetio neka mjesta na kojima se spominju banski¹, odnosno zagrebački denari tijekom 13. i 14. st., točnije između 1260. i 1347. godine – ovdje, u stotinu isprava.

Slavonski, odnosno banski denari (nemojmo zaboraviti ni manju nominalu, poludenare, kao ni još sitnije bagatine – dokument br. 77) pomalo nespretno vulgo nazvani slavonskim banovcima, odavna su tema brojnih numizmatičkih rasprava i članaka,² a zanimanje za njih ne jenjava. To je vrlo lijep, premda sitan novac, iskovan od dobrog srebra. Čak i ako se poveća tri puta – a to je učinio Vladimir Mataušić 1981. godine o proslavi uspostave Zagrebačke kovnice – slavonski denar ostaje zadivljujuće izrađen, sve do početka 14. st., kad pod anžuvinskim kraljevima kalupari rezbare sve slabije kalupe.

Na licu se unutar dva biserna okvira nalazi natpis koji varira: MONETA REGIS P(ro) SCLAVONIA, MONETA B(elae) REGIS P(ro) SCLAVO-

From this abundant material, I would like to select and dedicate to my colleague Mate Zekan some instances mentioning banal* and Zagreb denars during the 13th and 14th centuries, more precisely between 1260 and 1347, in a total of one hundred documents.

Slavonian, i.e. banal denars (and let us not forget the smaller denomination, half-denars, as well as even smaller bagattini – document No. 77), somewhat clumsily called Slavonian banovci in the vernacular, have long been the subject of numerous numismatic discussions and articles,¹ and there is still no lack of interest in them. It is a very fine, though tiny coin, minted from good silver. Even when enlarged to three times its size, as done by Vladimir Mataušić in 1981 on the occasion of the celebration of the establishment of the Zagreb Mint, the Slavonian denar is still astonishingly crafted. It was like that all the way to the beginning of the 14th century, when engravers started carving ever inferior dies under the Anjou kings.

On its obverse, inside two pearl frames, there is an inscription that varies: MONETA REGIS P(ro) SCLAVONIA, MONETA B(elae) REGIS P(ro) SCLAVONIA, MONETA DVCIS P(ro) SCLAVONIA, and REX SCLAVONIE or DVX SCLAVONIE on half-denars. In the very field, a marten is depicted running either to the left or right, usually with a star above and below it, and sometimes with other symbols. The layout of the reverse is especially beautiful and unusual: the patriarchal cross stands in a pearl frame on the pedestal, with circlets at its ends. On the right and left at the top there is a star on one side and a crescent with a circlet on the other, while below the lower arm of the cross there are heads with open crowns facing each other, the king's with long hair, and the queen's with a hair-net. The denars can be precisely associated with kings, dukes and bans by their marks, i.e. the initials, as well as some heraldic details.

Due to the use of good silver, the coins were aptly stored and kept in our lands, as well as in neighbouring Hungary. This has been evidenced by numerous hoards and individual finds². Due to their

NIA, MONETA DVCIS P(ro) SCLAVONIA, odnosno REX SCLAVONIE ili DVX SCLAVONIE na poludenarima. U samomu polju prikazana je kuna u trku ili nalijevo ili nadesno, a iznad i ispod nje je obično zvijezda, katkad i drugi simboli. Posebno je lijepa i neobična kompozicija naličja: u biser-nom okviru na postolju stoji patrijarhalni križ, na krajevima kojeg su kružići. Gore lijevo i desno je zvijezda, s jedne, i polumjesec s kružićem, s druge strane, a ispod donje prečke križa postavljene su jedna nasuprot drugoj glave okrunjene otvorenim krunama, glava kralja, s dužom kosom, i kraljice, s kosom skupljenom u mreži. Prema siglama, odnosno inicijalima, kao i nekim heraldičkim detaljima, denari se mogu točno opredijeliti prema kraljevima, hercezima i banovima.

Zbog dobra srebra taj se novac dobro spremao i čuvao u našim zemljama, ali i u susjednoj Ugar-skoj. O tome svjedoče brojni skupni i pojedinačni nalazi.³ Zbog njihove obljubljenosti denari su se i oponašali, odnosno patvorili,⁴ pa se takvi primjerci mogu naći i u ostavama.

Slavonski, odnosno banski denari kronološki su već dugo vremena dobro obrađeni i najčešće ih se klasificira prema standardnom djelu Ivana Rengjea⁵ ili pak prema knjizi Irislava Dolenca.⁶ Numizma-tička literatura o njima je također obilata i raste iz godine u godinu.

Liberi denarii spominju se u dokumentu s nad-nevkom 8. VII. 1231. godine (br. 1), dok se zagre-popularity, the denars were imitated, i.e. forged,³ and such specimens have also been found in hoards.

Slavonian and banal denars have been well processed chronologically for quite some time and are most often classified according to the standard work by Ivan Rengjeo⁴ or in line with the book by Irislav Dolenc⁵. The numismatic literature dealing with them is also abundant and growing year in year out.

Liberi denarii are mentioned in a document dated 8 July 1231 (No. 1), while Zagreb denars (denarii zagrabienses) are referred to in documents from 1260 to 1344 (Nos. 2–8, 10, 12–16, 18, 23, 28–31, 35, 36, 38–40, 42–48, 50, 52–55, 73, 80, 82, 95). Similarly, denarii banales were mentioned from 1269 to 1347 (Nos. 9, 11, 17, 19–22, 24–27, 32–34, 37, 41, 49, 51, 56–79, 81–82, 84–94, 96, 99–100). Denarii grecenses should not be regarded as denars of Gradec, but rather of Gradac, because they bački denari (denarii zagrabienses) nalaze imenovani u ispravama počevši od 1260. do 1344. godine (br. 2-8, 10, 12-16, 18, 23, 28-31, 35-36, 38-40, 42-48, 50, 52-55, 73, 80, 82, 95). Slično se denarii banales spominju od 1269. do 1347. godine (br. 9, 11, 17, 19-22, 24-27, 32-34, 37, 41, 49, 51, 56-79, 81-82, 84-94, 96, 99-100). Denarii grecenses ne bi trebali biti gradački denari, već gradački, jer se nižu zajedno s bečkim denarima (vyenenses, vienenses) u spisu br. 95 iz 1344. godine

Tijekom 14. st. opisuju se i kao dobri banski denari, boni denarii banales (br. 59, 61-68, 71, 73, 75, 77-78, 82, 87, 89-92, 94, 97, 99, 100), ali i kao antiqua banalis moneta (br. 56, 70), za razliku od tada iskovanog novca, moneta domini Mygh bani i moneta domini Nicolai bani (br. 98, 1346).

Osim u svakodnevnom životu pri kupovini, spomenuti denari – ali i drukčiji novac u optjecaju, prije i poslije njihovog kovanja – važu se i čine mjere: *marca*⁷ (br. 3, 5-10, 14, 16-17, 25-28, 30-32, 35, 40-41, 43, 48, 57, 66, 69-71, 73, 82, 84-85, 88, 90, 95, 98), *pensa*⁸ (br. 2-10, 13, 16-19, 24-32, 34-35, 37, 40-41, 43-44, 47, 49, 56, 62, 66-67, 70-71, 79, 82, 84-86, 95); mjera *ferto*⁹ javlja se mnogo kasnije, od 1323. godine (br. 70, 72, 89, 96). Postoji i mjera zvana pondus (br. 11, 70).¹⁰

Opširno objašnjenje Ivana Rengjea za marku (marca) glasi:

“Slavonska marka. Među brojnim uteznim markama srednjega vijeka spominje se i marca sclavonica, nazivana i marca Zagrabiensis (V. marka!). Dok je prauzor svim tim markama bila kolonjska (kölnska) marka teška 233, 3533 g, sve su druge marke – zbog neusavršenog pribora za mjerenje – bile težinom veće ili manje od kölnske. Tako je bilo i sa slavonskom markom. Do danas se ne zna točna težina te naše marke. Truhelka je pokušao, da pomoću mjerenja slav. kovanog novca ustanovi njezinu težinu, ali mu nije uspjelo, da je konačno i točno fiksira, jer mu je po jednom računanju njezina težina iznosila 228,393 g, a po drugom 236,57 g do are associated with Viennese denars (vyenenses, vienenses) in file No. 95 from 1344.

During the 14th century, they were also described as good banal denars, boni denarii banales (Nos. 59, 61-68, 71, 73, 75, 77-78, 82, 87, 89-92, 94, 97, 99, 100), as well as antiqua banalis moneta (Nos. 56, 70), unlike the coins minted at the time, domini Mygh bani and moneta domini Nicolai bani (Nos. 98, 1346).

The mentioned denars – as well as other coins in circulation, before and after their minting – were used daily, e.g. in shopping, but were also weighed and utilised as units of measurement: the *marca*⁶ (Nos. 3, 5-10, 14, 16-17, 25-28, 30-32, 35, 40-41, 43, 48, 57, 66, 69-71, 73, 82, 84-85, 88, 90, 95, 98), the *pensa*⁷ (Nos. 2-10, 13, 16-19, 24-32, 34-35, 37, 40-41, 43-44, 47, 49, 56, 62, 66-67, 70-71, 79, 82, 84-86, 95), while the *ferto*⁸ appeared much later, viz. in 1323 (Nos. 70, 72, 89, 96). Another unit of measurement in use was the pondus (Nos. 11, 70)⁹.

Ivan Rengje offered a comprehensive explanation for the mark (marca):

Fig 5. Slavonian denar struck under King Stephen V (1270-1272) (The Zagreb Archaeological Museum)

237,91. Poznato je, da je kovnica salcburških nadbiskupa u Friesachu u Koruškoj u velikim količinama slala u Hrvatsku i dalje u Ugarska svoje srebrne novce. Ti su novci prije pojave hrvatskih frizatika i slav. banovaca bili glavno plaćevno sredstvo u Hrvatskoj. A kako su se plaćanja vršila samo u markama, najvjerovatnije je, da je i u Hrvatskoj vrijedila ista marka, koja i u Friesachu. Bit će prema tome, da se u Slavoniji u 13. i 14. stolj. upotrebljavala kao marca sclavonica težinom ista marka, kakva je u Friesachu, u težini od 224,4917 g. Za tu mogućnost govori i težina slav. banovaca. Iz jedne utezne slav. marke od 224,4917 g kovalo se 240 denara, tako da je jedan denar bio težak 0,9354 g, što posvema i točno odgovara sred. težini slavonskih banovaca. Uz ovu, uteznu, postojala je i novčana ili računska marka (marca pagamenti) od 200 denara, a dijelila se ovako: 1 marka = 200 denara = 5 penza; 1 penza = 40 denara.”¹¹

Ali i pod natuknicom Marca denariorum banalium možemo također naći sljedeće:

“Marca denariorum banalium je naziv u starim pisanim spomenicima 13. i 14. stoljeća, kojim se označivala računska ili novčana jedinica banskog, odnosno hercegškog novca Slavonije. U staroj Hrvatskoj između mora i Drave nije se upotrebljavao novac Ugarske, nego ili bizantski ili od 12. stoljeća srebrni novac iz Friesacha u Koruškoj. U toj kovnici salcburških nadbiskupa se kovalo i računalo prema frizaškoj marki, teškoj 224,4917 g. Jedna se marka dijelila na 6 firdunga ili fertona, a jedan je firdung imao 40 pfeniga; ili 1 frizaška marka = 200 pfeniga. Hrvatski odnosno slavonski hercezi i banovi počeli su krajem 12. stoljeća kovati svoj novac, osobito zato, da spriječe širenje frizaških pfeniga po Hrvat-biensis (cf. mark!). While the prototype of all these marks was the Cologne mark, weighing 233.3533 g, all other marks – due to imperfect measuring instruments – weighed more or less than the Cologne mark. It was the same with the Slavonian mark. The exact weight of that mark remains unknown. Truhelka attempted to determine its weight by measuring Slavonian coins, but he failed to identify it finally and accurately, for according to one calculation its weight was 228.393 g, while another yielded from 236.57 g to 237.91 g. It is known that the mint of the Salzburg archbishops in Friesach, Carinthia, used to consign large quantities of their silver coins to Croatia and Hungary. These coins were the major means of payment in Croatia before the Croatian frisatics and Slavonian banovci. Since payments were made in marks only, it is most likely that the same mark was valid in Croatia as in Friesach. Therefore, it would seem that it was used as the marca sclavonica in Slavonia in the 13th and 14th centuries, weighing the same as the mark from Friesach, viz. 224,4917 g. This is supported by the weight of Slavonian banovci. One Slavonian weight mark, weighing 224,4917 g, served to mint 240 denars, so that one denar weighed 0.9354 g, which completely and exactly corresponds to the average weight of Slavonian banovci. In addition to the weight mark, there was also a monetary or arithmetical mark (marca pagamenti) of 200 denars, divided as follows: 1 mark = 200 denars = 5 pensas; 1 pensa = 40 denars.”¹⁰

In addition, under the headword Marca denariorum banalium, one can find the following:

“Marca denariorum banalium is a term from old written monuments of the 13th and 14th centuries, denoting the arithmetic or monetary unit of the banal and ducal coins of Slavonia. Hungarian coinage was not used in old Croatia, between the sea and the Drava River, but either Byzantine or silver coins from Friesach in Carinthia, the latter from the 12th century. This mint of the archbishops from Salzburg used the Friesach mark, weighing 224,4917 g, for minting and arithmetic. One mark was divided into six vierdungs or fertons, while one vierdung comprised 40 pfennigs; or, 1 Friesach mark = 200 pfennigs. Croatian and Slavonian dukes and bans began to mint their own coins at the end of the 12th century, particularly to prevent the spread of Friesach pfennigs throughout Croatia, as well as to enjoy the income that the mint was generating. Therefore, in skoj a i zato, da sami uživaju one prihode, koje je kovnica novca donosila. Zato su ispočetka, od 1196. do 1235., imitirali frizaške pfenige, a prihvatili su i frizašku marku i njezinu diobu. Tako je nastala slavonska ili zagrebačka marka, koja se dijelila na 5 penza, a jedna penza na 40 denara; ili slavonska marka = 200 denara. Takovo računanje slavonskih banovaca ostalo je stalno sve od oko 1235. god. do oko 1360. god., kada kovanje banovaca prestaje. U pisanim spomenicama onoga vremena označivala se vrednota banskih denara ovakovim i sličnim navodima: pro quindecim pensis, quarum singulae quinque pensae marcam tunc temporis faciebant. Banovci su se kovali dobru stotinu godina, uvijek u istom tipu, u podjednako težini od oko 0,9 g u solidnoj izradi, i nisu se svake godine mijenjali. Zbog toga su postali solidna moneta, koju se rado primalo i trošilo i izvan stare Slavonije. Banovci su napokon polovinom 13. stoljeća posvema istisnuli upotrebu frizaških denara iz Hrvatske, odnosno Slavonije.”¹²

Pensa bi prema mišljenju stručnjaka (Ivan Rengjeo) bila: “Penza (lat. pensa, od penso, 1, vagati) je srednjevjekovni naziv za odmjerenu, odvaganu, vrijednost, brojčanu, a zatim i novčanu. U staroj Slavoniji je bila penza novčana računski jedinica, peti dio marke, a svojom je vrijednošću odgovarala bizantskom zlatniku, solidusu. U 13. i 14. stoljeću išlo je na jednu slavonsku novčanu marku 300 denara (denarii banales), a na jednu penzu 40 denara. U markama i penzama su u Slavoniji računalo i plaćalo od 12. do 15. stoljeća.”¹³

Ivan Rengjeo ferto definira ovako: “Ferto je sredovječna oznaka za četvrtinu svake mjere, naročito marke. I naša slavonska utezna marka od 224,4917 g dijelila se na 4 fertona po 56,1229 g a 1 ferton na 12 pondusa po 4,6769 g.”¹⁴

Pondus, latinski uteg, odnosno mjera, u Slavoniji je iznosio 4,6769 g. Slavonska se dakle marka od 224,4917 g dijelila na 48 ponda.¹⁵

Iz navedenih citata možemo mnogo toga saznati. Važni su podatci o samoj kovnici, npr. Zagrebačkoj¹⁶ (“camera nostra de Zagravia”) iz 1294. godine (br. 65), 1323. godine (br. 70) i 1344. godine (br. 95). Takvim denarima plaćao se porez zvan kunovina (marturina)¹⁷ i slične daće, carine i placovine the beginning, i.e. from 1196 to 1235, they imitated the Friesach pfennigs, and also adopted the Friesach mark and its division. This is how the Slavonian or Zagreb mark was created. It was divided into five pensas, and one pensa into 40 denars; or, 1 Slavonian mark = 200 denars. This arithmetic concerning Slavonian banovci remained constant from around 1235 until about 1360, when the minting of banovci ceased. In written sources from that time, the value of banal denars was denoted with the following and similar statements: pro quindecim pensis, quarum singulae quinque pensae marcam tunc temporis faciebant. Banovci were minted for a good hundred years, always in the same type, with the same weight of about 0.9 g. They were of solid workmanship, and were not changed annually. Because of that, they became a solid coin, gladly received and spent even outside of old Slavonia. In the mid-13th century, banovci completely obviated the need for Friesach denars in Croatia and Slavonia.”¹¹

According to Ivan Rengjeo’s expert opinion, the pensa is defined as follows: “Pensa (L. pensa, from penso, 1. to weigh) is the mediaeval term for a measured and/or weighed value, either numerical or monetary. In old Slavonia, the pensa was a monetary unit of account, one-fifth of the mark, and its value corresponded to the Byzantine gold coin, the solidus. In the 13th and 14th centuries, one Slavonian monetary mark was worth 300 denars (denarii banales), while one pensa equalled 40 denars. In Slavonia, marks and pensas were used for accounting and payment from the 12th to the 15th century.”¹²

Ivan Rengjeo defined the ferto as follows: “The ferto is the mediaeval term for one quarter of any quantity, especially the mark. Our Slavonian weight mark of 224.4917 g was also divided into four fertons of 56.1229 g, and one ferton into 12 pondera of 4.6769 g each.”¹³

The pondus, viz. the Latin weight or unit of measurement, equalled 4.6769 g in Slavonia. Ergo, the Slavonian mark of 224.4917 g was divided into 48 pondera¹⁴.

One can learn a lot from such quotes. The important information concern the very mints, for instance, the Zagreb one¹⁵ (“camera nostra de Zagravia”) from 1294 (No. 65), 1323 (No. 70) and 1344

Sl. 6. Slavonski denar kralja Ladislava IV. (1272. – 1290.) (Arheološki muzej u Zagrebu)

Fig 6. Slavonian denar struck under King Ladislaus IV (1272-1290) (The Zagreb Archaeological Museum)

(br. 1, 9, 13, 21-22, 48-49, 57, 69, 72, 77, 88, 89, 96); kupovali su se i prodavali robovi i robinje te kmetovi (br. 6, 12, 49, 56). Globe su npr. iznosile 40 denara.¹⁸

Naravno, veći dio dokumenata (u rasponu od 1260. do 1347. godine) govori o kupovini, zamjeni ili zalaganju posjeda, koji su katkada bili i sastavni dio miraza. Društveni položaj osoba koje kupuju ili prodaju imanja kreće se od skromnih građana pa sve do banova i biskupa.

Manja zemljišta prodavala su se u penzama: 6 (br. 86), 7 (br. 79), 10 (br. 14), 15 – za 12 vretena zemlja (br. 2), 15 (br. 7, 8), 27 (br. 20), 32 (br. 18), 50 (br. 17), 70 (br. 19), 100 (br. 16), Vrijednost brojnih posjeda u odvaganim markama denara zapisana je u spomenutim ispravama u rasponu od jedne marke pa sve do 230 maraka: 1 (br. 73, 90), 2 (br. 52, 94), 3 (br. 33, 81, 92), 4 (br. 20, 91), 5 (br. 23), 6 (br. 78), 7 (br. 46), 9 (br. 15), 10 (br. 4, 60, 63, 76), 11 (br. 68), 12 (br. 3, 36, 58), 16 (br. 37), 17 (br. 63), 18 (br. 51), 20 (br. 5, 38, 93), 25 (br. 83), 26 (br. 31), 27 (br. 47), 28 (br. 74, br. 98), 29 (br. 14, 66), 29 ½ (br. 32), 30 (br. 25, 28, 87, 98, 300), 32 (br. 80), 33 (br. 29), 35 (br. 30, 40, 50), 36 (br. 89), 40 (br. 34, 39, 41, 59, 71), 45 (br. 67), 50 (br. 61), 58 (br. 98), 60 (br. 42, 54, 75, 82, 97, 99), 70 (br. 44, 62), 100 (br. 53, 55, 64), 102 (br. 27), 150 (br. 35 – tvrđi grad Lipovac), 230 (br. 43 – posjed Hrastovica). Taj bi raspon od 1 marke do 230 maraka težinski danas iznosio od 224,49 g do 51.633,091 g, a kad bi netko išao brojati srebrne denare, raspon bi po svojoj prilici bio od 240 do 55.200 primjeraka.

(No. 95). Denars were used to pay the tax called kunovina (marturina)¹⁶ and similar duties, customs and excises (Nos. 1, 9, 13, 21–22, 48–49, 57, 69, 72, 77, 88, 89). 96), and to purchase or sell slaves and serfs (Nos. 6, 12, 49, 56). For instance, some fines amounted to 40 denars¹⁷.

Naturally, most of the documents (ranging from 1260 to 1347) refer to purchase, exchange or pledge of possessions, which were sometimes integral parts of dowries. The social position of people who bought or sold properties ranges from humble citizens to bans and bishops.

Smaller land plots were sold in pensas: 6 (No. 86), 7 (No. 79), 10 (No. 14), 15 – for 12 “spindles” of land (No. 2), 15 (Nos. 7, 8), 27 (No. 20), 32 (No. 18), 50 (No. 17), 70 (No. 19), 100 (No. 16),

The value of numerous properties in weighed denar marks is recorded in such documents, ranging from one mark up to as many as 230 marks: 1 (Nos. 73, 90), 2 (Nos. 52, 94), 3 (Nos. 33, 81, 92), 4 (Nos. 20, 91), 5 (No. 23), 6 (No. 78), 7 (No. 46), 9 (No. 15), 10 (Nos. 4, 60, 63, 76), 11 (No. 68), 12 (Nos. 3, 36, 58), 16 (No. 37), 17 (No. 63), 18 (No. 51), 20 (Nos. 5, 38, 93), 25 (No. 83), 26 (No. 31), 27 (No. 47), 28 (Nos. 74, No. 98), 29 (Nos. 14, 66), 29½ (No. 32), 30 (Nos. 25, 28, 87, 98, 300), 32 (No. 80), 33 (No. 29), 35 (Nos. 30, 40, 50), 36 (No. 89), 40 (Nos. 34, 39, 41, 59, 71), 45 (No. 67), 50 (No. 61), 58 (No. 98), 60 (Nos. 42, 54, 75, 82, 97, 99), 70 (Nos. 44, 62), 100 (Nos. 53, 55, 64), 102 (Nos. 27), 150 (No. 35 – the castle of Lipovac), 230 (No. 43 – the Hrastovica estate). Today, this range from one to 230 marks would amount from 224.49 g to 51,633.091 g, and if we were to count silver denars, the range would probably span from 240 to 55,200 specimens.

Notwithstanding, all these possessions belonged to mere mortals. In the second half of the 12th century, the Bishop of Zagreb had an income of 1,500 marks. A king, however, had different emoluments. It is interesting to examine the income of Béla III (1172–1196): he was receiving 60,000 marks from the mint, 16,000 marks from salt, 3,000 marks from road, sea and trade tolls, 15,000 marks from Transylvania, and one third from 72 prefects in the annual amount of 25,000 marks...¹⁸

No sve su to imetci kojima su raspolagali obični smrtnici. Biskup zagrebački imao je u drugoj polovini 12. st. prihod od 1.500 maraka. Jedan kralj je ipak raspolagao drukčijim prihodima. Zanimljivo je proučiti kojim je prihodima raspolagao Bela III. (1172. – 1196.): od kovnice novca primao je 60.000 maraka, od soli 16.000 maraka, od cestarine, brodarine i trgovine 3.000 maraka, iz Sedmogradske je primao 15.000 maraka, od 72 župana dobivao je trećinu u godišnjem iznosu od 25.000 maraka...¹⁹
